EAGLE WINGS.

Rev. Will M. Burgess Delivers the Baccalaureate Sermon in His Happiest Style

A Large Congregation of People Give Rapt Attention to the Eloquent Preacher.

THE SERMON IN FULL.

Rev. XII.—“And to the woman were given two wings, and there were given to the woman two wings, of a great eagle.”

There is another name that is a household word, a name coupled with a catchword that comes in Stapleton, for Hanover More was born in Stapleton in 1813. It was for her to write a wonderful book on “Village Politics” which found its way to hall and cottage, to castle and to but, and the high and lowly were loud in its praise. The Bishop of London said of it: “I look upon Mr. Chip, (Will Chip being the name under which Hanover More wrote) as one of the first writers of the age, and what is better I trust it will immortalize the constitution.” She continued to write and to wield an influence for many years until at last she followed her four sisters to the blest land beyond.

We shall not hope that in this age of the world, when man is so weak, that any woman will open to the woman of intellectual strength, that you, the class of ‘94 may lift yourselves upon the wings of your intelligence, that the progress of your flight may be followed by those beneath you, and that they may be encouraged to go forward with the same strength.

2. That all Democrats who vote for Grover Cleveland at the last Presidential election, and all known Democrats who for sufficient reason, sickness, absence or other cause, did not vote (or did not qualify) voted to fail in that election, shall be allowed to vote in this election, to the extent of the necessary legal qualifications on the date thereof and it is made the duty of the elector to ascertain the date of the election and to apply to those right to vote under this resolution they may do.

3. Any person desirous to submit his name to the ballot box, shall, on or before 10 a.m. on Thursday, July 19, 1894, appear in person or by attorney before the Chairman of the Committee at Elizabethtown, and notify him of the fact that he is a candidate, and deposit with him $1,000, divided by the number of candidates who then declare, the same to be paid in deposit in the event of his election.

The excuse if any shall be given to the Chairman of the Committee to decline to run pro rata to the candidate who contributed the sum, if any deficit should arise, it shall be paid by the contributor in the same manner.

It is hereby made the duty of said Chairman to be present in person or by representative as provided above.

4. The Chairmen of the several counties shall be directed to publish in their respective counties from lists as provided by law and to notify in writing delivered in person or by messenger said officers of the time and place of holding and distribution of the noticed ballot boxes, cards, etc., required for the legal conduct of this Primary election.

5. It shall be the duty of the sheriffs of election of the several voting precincts in the district to deliver the returns of the election to the Chairman of the Committee at the Circuit Court Clerk's office on the 10th day of August, 1894.

6. It shall be the duty of the members of the Committee to deliver the returns of the election to the Chairman of the Committee at the Circuit Court Clerk's office on the 10th day of August, 1894.

7. The sheriff of each of these Committees is hereby authorized to let to the lowest bidder the contract for printing the ballot notices, instruction cards, etc., for the election, and to pay to the notice of election, and delivering same to the several County Chairmen.

8. That the Committee shall meet at the office of the Clerk's office in Elizabethtown on Wednesday, August 15, at 1 p.m. for the purpose of canvassing the results of the election.

9. On the 10th day of July of 1894, no candidate shall appear and comply with the conditions imposed by this Committee, it shall be the duty of the chairman to call this Committee together at Elizabethtown on Thursday, July 26, 1894, at 11 a.m. and to determine the name of the candidate who has complied with the conditions imposed to be the nominee of the Democratic party.

10. That in all towns where the registration is held by law, the last registration had in town shall be responsible for this Primary.

11. That a fee of one dollar for each of the services for this Primary shall be paid one dollar each for their services.

12. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to every county paper in the state and shall be requested to publish same in full.

13. That Dr. Brown be paid such price as he may fix for his services.

14. That Dr. Smith be paid top prices and sells goods cheap.

15. Mr. Ayerworth, of Grahampton, is the guest of Mrs. and Mrs. Jake Kent.

16. J. A. Wimp, of Ekron, and Louis Meadow, of Big Spring, went to Louisville.

17. Mrs. V. B. Shackett went to Louisville Friday.

18. Dr. J. R. Dowell went to Vine Grove Thursday.

19. Dr. J. R. Shackett went to the city Saturday.

20. Dr. J. R. Shackett and son and A. E. Smith went to Louisville Thursday week.

21. Mrs. Annie Richardson, of Garfield, is visiting Mrs. M. N. Bewley this week.

22. Dr. Cox was not the boy to go to the city Saturday.

23. Why does Mr. Cox wear his cap on his head? Because he is poor.

24. Mrs. H. Richardson and wife, of Louisville, were visiting relatives here last week.

25. Why does Brown get so much produce? Because he pays top prices and sells goods cheap.

26. Dr. W. H. Richardson, of Louisville, is visiting his son and daughter here.

27. Mrs. V. B. Shackett returned from Louisville Friday evening, where he has been attending the A. & M. college here.

28. Miss Ella Daugherty, of Owenton, arrived Friday evening to spend some time with her sisters, Misses Mamie, Anna and Laura.

29. The face of Mr. Z. T. Cox, our general agent, has been very pale of late days, he being the possessor of a rolling fine boy, which came into his possession the 25th day of this month, and we can't blame him for this.

30. Mrs. V. B. Shackett, a young widow, a little girl, a town in Scotland found a little book filled with such characters as X-Y-Z-A. 12X-7Y-10A. She was much astonished at these curious statements, but alone, and almost unaided, she mastered the problems and became one of the foremost mathematicians of her day. Her father was necessarily much away from home, and she was compelled to rest chiefly upon the mother, but she found her little daughter, Mary Somerville to be an apt and studious scholar. It was uncommon at that time for a woman to be a classical scholar or a mathematician. Yet she became an adept in Latin and Greek, and in 1831 published her “Mechanics of the Heavens,” which followed two years later by “The Connection of Physical Sciences,” and notwithstanding its author was a woman, this became a text book in the universities. Two other very important works were published by her. All four of these have taken a high place in the scientific world. it's AUGUST 4.

The Day for Holding the Democratic Primary in the Fourth Congressional District.

The County Committee of the Fourth Congressional District met at Elizabethtown last Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of adopting a means of nominating a candidate for Congress. After a short and pleasant session a primary election was decided upon and August 4 set for the day. The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That on Saturday, August 4th, 1894, a primary election be held in this, the Fourth Congressional District of Kentucky, consisting of the counties of Hardin, Hart, Marion, Meade, Nelson, Ohio, Taylor and Washington. The candidate for Representative in Congress to be nominated for the ensuing term shall be the person who, in the several precincts in the district, receives the largest number of votes cast.

It is true that the day of persecution and execution of the followers of Christ is over, at least in our own land. Yet we see what the church, be it protestant or Roman Catholic has done in all ages, where she has had power. The road, from the day of Christ's coming almost to the present, has been studded with the bleeding bodies of the followers of Jesus. What has been may be again. It is not probable that you will be called upon to undergo suffering or death for your master, as did Annie Askew, when the Bishop was sent to urge her recent and to accept the teachings of his church as to the real body and blood of Christ.

Lucy Webb Haynes when she refused to serve wine at the White House. These women lifted themselves upon the wings of strength, spiritual strength.

They will come times of trial and testing, you, young ladies. In what form I do not know, it will be, but it will come.

What is to be done? If it comes, stand by your master, be it protestant or Roman Catholic, and do not let him down. If it comes, stand by your master, be it protestant or Roman Catholic, and do not let him down.

WHEN it comes to putting on commencement airs Breckinridge is very much in it.

EVERYBODY will be sorry to hear of the serious illness of the Hon. W. E. Minor.

JULIAN BROWN says it pays to advertise in the News. He had more people on his excursion last week than he could handle.

THAT was a very frightful sight which occurred on our streets yesterday. No pen can do it justice. It was simply horrifying.

FORTYSIX people are sitting back sawing wood and saying nothing, waiting for the proper time to strike for their new county.

COURSES we never looking better. Corn is a little late from the recent cold snap, but it is in fine condition and with a little warm weather it will spring up like magic.

QUEEN Victoria was seventy-five years old last Thursday. She is enjoying excellent health and it is possible that she will live several years yet. She has been on the throne fifty-seven years and her reign embraces all the most memorable events in English history.

THE GEO. F. PINTER PRINTING COMPANY is a full crop of tobacco set and it is able to stand alone. There is where enough in this country to give every man in it the right to be a voter. We have in a year if he has grit enough to get up and handle for them. Breckinridge county is in good shape for any and all emergencies.

THE W. R. BABBAGE PRINTING COMPANY and the SOWLE MFG. CO., of Louisville, were the most successful bidders on a $15,000 contract for W. R. Babbages, Inc., Co., hardware merchants of that city. This is quite a feather in Mr. Fitter's hat and the News congratulates him on his success. The Courier-Journal Job Printing Company and several large eastern printing establishments were bidders on the work.

THE AMERICAN convention for the Fourth District, to nominate a candidate for Congress will be held at Lebanon, Marion county, Ky., on Wednesday, June 27th. Breckinridge county is entitled to two delegates, but as the sole object in putting up a candidate can only be to help him, we believe, Alex. Montgomery in the otherwise-festless canvas, we would advise our Republican friends not to blow in any hard-earned good money in the expenses necessary in making the trip to attend.

THE OBERONNE MESSAGER gives the following, which purports to be an account of the Breckinridge-Poland affair, clipped from an English newspaper:

"President Breckinridge, of the province of Kentucky, has been ordered by the high court of appeal to pay $10,000 to the widow of Poland, a Negro, brought to trial for the killing of his master, President Breckinridge, in the civil war in that country, and who is said to have written the proslavery articles in the New York Tribune. Miss Pollard is a daughter of the president of Harvard college, the most distinguished educational institution in Kentucky. It is thought President Breckinridge will be impeached."

IT is no longer a mystery why Collector Ben Johnson gave up Gus W. Henton, the slave of chief of his office without being solicited by Gus or his friends. The Louisville Collector is something of an epicure and he had heard of the immense crops of bull frogs that were annually harvested from Gus' Meade county ponds. Only last Saturday night he captured eight and one-half dozen of as fine greenbacked night-hoppers as ever made the hours of darkness hideous among the swamps of Guston. He took them up to his chief on Monday and they are no doubt now singing the famous frogology chorus, "get-up-and-crack-the-under-root," in their deep, rich, hoarse voice in the Louisville Custom-house.

Plowed Up Silver.

While John Frank, a farmer residing near McQuaid in this county, was plowing in his field one day last week, he noticed some small, round, rusty, metallic looking objects torn from the plowshare. He stopped and on examination, discovered that they were silver coins tarnished by the damp earth. He kept up the investigation until he had found a little more than $20 in coins of different denominations. He also found the remains of an old pocket-book which had rotted to pieces, and it is supposed that it, containing the money had been lost and probably plowed under in some former season. No one who had lost it is known.

This Is What They Know About It.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 26.—The women's Christian league of Milwaukee followed the following resolution last night:

"We heartily endorse the women of Kentucky in petitioning the legislature of that state to prevent the return of W. C. Breckinridge as United States senator."

Chas. Sawyer is at home for a short visit. He will then go to San Francisco in the interest of the M. V. Monarch distillery.

A FIGHTFOR MILLIONS.

By JOHN J. McGINNIS.

Copyrighted 1890, by American Press Association.

"You will! She is the best girl you ever knew, I'm surprised that you have changed so much. Why, you actually intimate there is something in the past so terrible as to make her unhappy in your eyes."

"Yes, I did. You know. You have always been so generous and manly."

"Listen to me, Mother St. Gertrude."

"Say no more, she answered. "I speak of the past, but I bring them up. Let the dead past bury its dead; if the resurrection be not glorious, bring up the spectral reminiscence of wrongs to haunt the paths of virtue. Laurence, if you would tell me what you are doing here as far as I am concerned, I would tell you to leave. It is as I feared and told Isabel."

"The truth was not all told her."

"I did not tell her, who says I did not always speak truly?"

"Not you. I meant another."

"Mother, do not be sarcastic with me. Answer! What other than you has your spoken of the past? Let me tell you, before you launch into words that sound strongly to me from you, that when I said I would tender my claim to her I meant to convey a sense of my unworthiness."

"No confession," she replied, "I may lead to trouble, but I must say that it is not to be your good now. A friend is watching over you."

"The friend that watches over us all. You, but what is this confession? You talk of rights, but I have none. You may have a few words, and the judge me. I would not press my suit with Isabel because it may come to pass that she is."

"What?" interrupted Mother St. Gertrude, whose eagerness to hear the statement delayed its own gratification.

"What is she, Laurence, speak the truth?"

"An heiress to millions."

"An heiress?"

"Do you know what you are saying, Laurence?"

"Very well, but it is not true. I may leave for a time, but if the news is not good it may be long before you hear from me."

"Tell me."

He walked to a corner of the room and sat down. As Mangan drew his chair closer, he said:

"Now, mother, you've been interested ever since I came here and using queer phrases. You must promise to listen, now, for my story is a long one and to you will require many explanations."

"I promise, I suppose."

"Well, not exactly, but make up your mind to listen."

He stopped again. He stepped back, and it intelligible to her, he had to give her a summary here and there of certain laws, mentioning neither their origin or their originator. He concluded by asking her if she had heard she had from General Leland, since he had broken into the convent and returned in a few minutes with it, and handed it to him. It was a letter of four lines, referring to the seal of check, and the signature caught his eye.

"It is the same mother, the same Isabel's father is the owner of the estate. There is a sum of money in trust with the dead! Isabel, as I said, is heiress to millions! She has gained much wealth, and I— I surrendered her love."

"Do you know what relation you are to her?" asked the sister, feeling that now had come the time to unfold the secret.

"Nothing, now."

"Yes, I want to tell you she loves you, and you'll have an equal share with her in those millions when—"

"Let me prove they are here first. Here is the paper, and I can't say we have not yet had the evidence that would be accepted in a court of law."

This interruption, intended to shut off his words, to consist, to be a prelude to a protest of Isabel's gratitude ended what Mother St. Gertrude would call her confession.

"This letter will go a great way, but it cannot reach Francis Raymond," continued Mangan.

"Francis Raymond?"

"Yes, he holds the certificates, and we have a few months to let them circulate him. I will write him a letter."

"Francis Raymond, the great politician!"

"The great Francis Raymond."

"Indeed he is! Thank God!"

"Saved! Not yet. Didn't I say he was not likely to hand over the property easily? Mother St. Gertrude, this man is a fiend incarnate, walking about with a fiendish face that drives his victims close to him and to ruin."

"I was thinking of something else."

"What else?"

There was a loud whirr of wheels. A cab stopped at the gate of the courtyard, its occupant descended, ran hast-should find one in the Bigle office, which I do not believe. I made the suggestion, and you have already adopted the practice of bribery and it earned yourself the title of a good fellow."

"You think it is deep," said Raymond, his wily smile suggesting compliments as a change. "I would prefer dealing with you. Don't get mad!"—and Mangan scowled at him.

"Better end the conversation here and now."

"Why are you determined?"

"Because justice and Edith."

"If there is any one you know who owns any of these lands, I will transfer my certificate in every case. Now, first a blow stroke.

It was a bold stroke. It was a shrill attempt to sound the depths of Mangan's knowledge, but Mangan read his purpose and calmly said:

"I might as well ask what are you doing here?"

Mangan addressed the newspaper man as if they had always been the best of friends.

"I might as well ask what are you doing here?"

Mangan and Francis Raymond stood face to face.

Presented by John Robinson's Great World's Exposition.

It cannot be the inclemency of the open air, even in the sweltering summer nights the sweet south winds, blessed by all creatures that draw the breath of life giving no relief to the victim of aspergiments.

There is no doubt that families who have freed themselves from the curse of superstition can live out and out healthily in the heart of a great city than its slaves on the airless highlands of southern Apennines.—Popular Science Monthly.

BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 30, 1894.

Dear Old Breckinridge News.

As bright as morning sunbeams
Falling from cloudless skies;
With much that gives us pleasure,
With much that is new to surprise;
Sparkling with gems of wit,
Free from profane abuse;
Dear old Breckinridge News.

Friens may drop away,
And loving hearts grow chill,
Fond hopes may decay.
As we wander down life's hill,
Time may send his frost,
Our friends may die, but still,
But there'll be pleasant left us—
We'll read the "News" each night.

Here's to the man at the helm,
Whose head is always level;
Here's to the printer lad;
And to the printer's ugly devil;
Here's to the news sheet;
That drives away the blues,
Here's to the pretty girls who read
The dear old BRECKINRIDGE NEWS.

Bob Zimmerman,

Shepherdsville, Ky.

CUSTER.

We have had a fine tobacco season. S. J. Brink, let us hear from you again. As to the wife of B. H. Springer, a fine boy. May 1st.

The cut worms are doing a great deal of damage in this section of the country. Have you seen Frate Board lately, he is all smiles now, it's a boy. Born May 13th.

Mrs. Hatton Webster, from Franklin, Va., is visiting his uncle, Mr. Juhul Board.

Mrs. Ada Board is teaching our spring school and all seem to be well pleased with her work.

I wonder what is the matter with the Lyon, I don't hear its roar any more in my mind, and Miss Effie looks quite pale.

I have been a silent admirer of the News a good many years, and never wrote a piece for publication before, as this place seems to have no correspondent I thought I would send a few items. The News has grown to be a very interesting paper.

Well, take this place, May 11th, little Lucy Hobbs, infant daughter of James and Mary J. Huffins. After a long and painful illness God saw fit to call her to rest. The parents have the sympathy of their many friends.

Dearest Lucy this has left us,
And we are deeply grieved.
But His hands are full of us.
He can all our sorrows heal.

DEAR YOUNG.

That Gilbert File is stuck on a Board? That Clarence Penick wants to be carried away?

That John and Tom Harrington are keeping bachelor's hair?

That Miss Ada Board is not stuck on anything more now?

That Miss Fannie Penick wants to play to California?

That Miss Tada Board knows how to cook bread with either soda or salt?

The magical cure of colds and coughs, with Ayers' Cherry Pectoral, is indispensible. As a family medicine it is unequalled.

SHILOH.

Miss Marie Randy has returned from her visit to Cloverport.

Miss Blanche Blasius was visiting her grand-mother and cousin last week.

Misses Precious and Maul Barber called on Mrs. Lila Kraush one day last week.

Mrs. Lena Claycomb and Lillie Wheeler were the guests of Miss Amy Kroush one day last week.

Mr. John Shellman has found out a good way to get rid of cut worms; just turn the hoe in the ground.

Mrs. P. D. Kroush and daughters, Miss Amy, and baby Della were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Shellman.

Farmers are almost done planting corn for this season, but the cut worms are doing a great damage to the corn crop.

Messrs. George and Earl propose taking in the party at Mr. John S. Hardisty's. That is right, boys, go or start, if you don't get the party at Mr. John S. Hardisty's.

Misses Shelia and Lizzie Claycomb were the guests of Misses Lila Dutsche and Melissa Shellman last week. Both report a pleasant time, only some accidents occurred while they were there, but nothing serious.

Ah, Lexington, quit your boasting of fish that weighed ten pounds, for instance, that you did. B. E. D., formerly of Cloverport, caught two the 6th of May, one weighing eighteen and the other twenty-seven and one-half pounds.

HOLT.

Cold and wet. Mr. Jake Miller is ill at this writing. J. H. Whitworth and Jas. Stewart set the first tobacco here the 11th.

Misses Lila Tate and Nannie Russel, mother and daughter, gave us all last Sunday.

Farmers are most all done planting corn, except those that have creek bottom land.

Miss Maggie Hall, Cloverport, was visiting friends and relatives here Saturday and Sunday.

The cut worms are still getting in their way to early crops, causing a great many to be replanted.

Bro. Shelly filled the pulpit here Saturday and Sunday, but owing to the bad weather the congregations were small.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, the danc to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

ABOUT A WATCH.

Some of the Wonderful Pieces of Machinery.

The watch carried by the average man is composed of 98 pieces, and is manufactured in 2000 distinct and separate operations.

Some of the smaller screws are so minute that the unaided eye can not distinguish them from steel filings or specks of dirt.

The most wonderful magnifying glass a perfect screw is revealed. The slit in the head is 2,000ths of an inch wide. It takes 208,000 of these screws to weigh a pound, and a pound is worth $1,885.

The hairspring is a strip of the finest steel, about 9 inches long, 1-100ths inch wide and 27-100ths of an inch thick.

It takes 100,000 of these to weigh a pound.

The process of tempering these springs was long held as a secret by the fortunate ones possessing it, and even now is not generally known.

Their manufacture requires great skill and care. The strip is aged to 20,000 hours, then it is straightened, and the metal has as yet been devised capable of fine enough gauging to determine beforehand by the size of the strip what the strength of the finished spring will be. A 20-100ths part of an inch difference in the thickness of the stop makes a difference in the rate of wear of about six months in length.

The value of these springs, when finished and placed in watches, is enormous in proportion to the material from which they are made. A comparison will give a good idea.

A ton of steel made up into hairsprings weighs 100 lbs. It is worth twice and a half times the value of the same weight in pure gold.

Hairsprings weigh one-twentieth of a grain to an inch. One mile of wire weighs less than half a pound.

The balance gives five vibrations every second, 300 every minute, and 18,000 every hour, 432,000 every day, and 15,789,000 every year.

At each vibration it revolves about one and one-fourth times, which make 180,000 revolutions every year.

In order that we may better understand the stupendous amount of labor performed by these tiny workers, let us make a striking comparison.

For instance, a locomotive with a foot driving wheel. Let its wheels be run until they have given the same number of revolutions as the hairspring does in one year, and they will have covered a distance equal to twenty-eight continent circuits of the earth.

All this a watch does without other attention than winding every twenty-four hours.—New Moon.

ECONOMY AND STRENGTH.

Valuable vegetable remedies are used in the preparation of Hoad's Sarsaparilla in such a peculiar manner as to retain the medicinal value of every ingredient.

What is Hoad's Sarsaparilla?

It causes an itching so persistent as to produce not only sleeplessness, but, at times, even delirium. Local applications will not remove the cause, which is impure blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla cures this disease by cleansing the blood and eradicating all humors.

Nelia Dean Owen Is Dead.

By the time this is published my duty to chronicle the death of this lovely woman, which occurred the 16th inst. 1894 at the home of her husband, John W. Owen, near McQuady, Ky. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Dean, age 31 years. As I stood by her coffin and gazed upon all the tokens of death, I could not help but feel a time ago replete with life and health and happiness. I could but muse upon the vanity of earthly hopes and prospects, and tho so often reminded of the awful brevity and uncertainty of life by my friends and loved ones sinking into the tomb, but in this instance we were the only ones left.

She was the maid of honor to a young woman who had just come from a wedding, and a perfect jewel in her beauty and grace. She was the most beautiful girl I ever saw, and her eyes were like diamonds.

"IT Must Be Settled."

A writer in the telephone talk of a convention of colored preachers on Captain Mathis's plantation, at Washington, N. C. One of them who described himself as "what is called an 'exter'd," defended the necessity for the meeting against Captain Mathis's objections.

"Well, we're here to meet you coming when shall I have to look up my head?" said Captain Mathis.

"Not before Friday, sir. When I look up my head, I want to see who is calling me to account," said the captain.

KIND OF AIR.

What Is Good for Different Ailments and Where We Should Go for Our Health.

Sea air and mountain air, both being equally good to improve the health that is already fairly good. Children almost invariably do well at the sea-side, while mountain resorts are in general much less suitable to them.

The sea air applies, though for certain diseases, especially if the heart is weak, the best remedy is the sea. The great Typhoid fever has been stopped by the use of sea air.

It is not clear whether mountain air has any effect upon them. Strains, all its forms, are best cured by the sea-side, especially if the heart is weak, but well at the sea-side, but well in the mountains. Skin diseases, especially eczema, are often aggravated by sea air.

The Journal of Today.

The present population of Louisville is not far from forty thousand, and more than half are Jews. They live in a separate quarter of their own, as also do the various divisions of Christians, as the Armenians, the Greeks and the Protestants. All these quarters are densely built, with narrow and irregular lanes for the alleys, and the houses are mostly built close together, so that it does not seem to reach the sides of the Hebrews. The indications are all of extreme poverty. A synagogue was pointed out bearing an inscription showing that it was a gift of a Paris Rothschild; but the mean appearance and untidy surroundings bore no recognition of critical refinement in the congregation.

The articles of food set out in the petti shoppe are often sold at a loss, and we come so often on spoiled salt fish among the stores possessed by the Hebrews that we concluded must form a regular element in their diet.

There was no visible sign of industry by which the people might earn their living, and no one need be surprised to learn that the Hebrews are the most improvident and shiftless race in the world.
